

Continue

Most Trusted: 1.43+ million law students passed the bar with BARBRI Most Innovative: world leader in tech-enabled legal education Most Personalized: the only truly customizable bar prep program 99.99 Percent online uptime for the past three bar seasons means fewer disruptions to your learning 185+ years of combined experience means our curriculum team knows how to teach you to pass the bar 19 Students who follow BARBRI's proven process score higher on the bar in UBE Jurisdictions than those who don't use BARBRI BARBRI's redesigned curriculum uses the latest proven learning methodologies, making complex subjects easier to master. New spiral instructional design helps you learn 40%+ faster. Spaced repetition helps transfer knowledge from short- to long-term memory for greater retention and recall. Active vs. passive learning enhances critical thinking and problem-solving skills. Frequent assessments support deeper understanding, reinforce concepts, and track your progress. Exam strategy workshops equip you with the best test-taking techniques for success on the bar. * NHI National Center for Biotechnology Information BARBRI Bar Review's proprietary adaptive online Personalized Study Plan is the only bar prep that allows you to create a customized study calendar based on the days you choose to study (or not), and which will automatically adjust your daily assignments based on priority and on your performance. Recent enhancements include: Most accurate Pass Predictor: see your rankings by subject compared to other students prepping for the bar exam. Our Pass Predictor is the most accurate because BARBRI has more students studying for the bar each year than all other bar prep programs combined. Customized data + personalized analytics: real-time guidance with frequent mock exams and assessments, easy-to-follow results, targeted feedback, and performance insights. Early access: goons access assignments and materials so you get a head start and more time to prep for the bar exam BARBRI Bar Review embraces the power of storytelling to create a rich, user-friendly experience tailored to your learning style. Short video lectures by expert legal faculty. Animated, plain-language videos include interactive knowledge checks. Mobile app so you can study from anywhere. Score Maximizer highlights must-know concepts and provides tips to avoid common bar exam pitfalls. Course texts and study materials created by BARBRI bar exam experts in print or online. Mobile-optimized eBook interface supports notetaking, highlighting, text-to-speech, flashcard creator, and more. New in-app essay platform makes completing and reviewing assignments easier than ever. New Course Companion highlights frequently tested topics. BARBRI is here to assist you throughout your bar exam preparation journey with experienced attorneys and support professionals. Join our community, connect with peers, and maximize your success. Your coach provides small group bar expert coaching. Expert feedback from bar exam writing experts gives you the individualized guidance you need to capture more essay points. Attorney support is available to answer your questions about the law, the course, or the exam. 24/7 technical support team is ready to assist you with access, questions, guidance, and more. While you are likely never to need us, rest assured our experienced team is here to help. Check circle Wherever you are in the world, we've got you covered check circle Meet some of the dedicated team of attorneys who will support you check circle 1:1 Private tutoring available check circle Live your life on your schedule with bar prep courses ranging from 8 weeks to 10 months check circle Buy only what you need, including a wide range of support options check circle All bar prep courses include the BARBRI Guarantee Reassurance if you need a second chance BARBRI Bar Review has been developed, designed and optimized to make sure you pass the bar exam the first time. However, we also know that sometimes life gets in the way, or the day doesn't go as you planned – and you need a second chance. If you've previously passed the BARBRI Bar Review course and did not pass the first time, the BARBRI Bar Review Guarantee allows you to repeat that course without paying additional tuition. Terms and conditions apply. Each tier, BARBRI gives you peace of mind and is with you every step of the way. Empowering every step of the legal learning journey with unrivaled flexible solutions for law students, professionals, and law schools. Join the 1.43 million+ legal professionals who have trusted BARBRI to help them pass the U.S. bar exam with BARBRI bar prep. Study for any U.S. jurisdiction, including the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Access personalized learning tools and expert support, every step of the way. Qualify as a solicitor in England and Wales. BARBRI's SOE Prep courses help you succeed in the Solicitors Qualifying Exam (SQE) with flexible, individualized, online learning; award-winning tech; personal feedback; and support. Open to both law and non-law graduates and qualified lawyers from anywhere in the world. Take the first step in your legal education journey by preparing for law school with BARBRI's proven LSAT prep courses, study aids, and law school admissions consulting. Succeed in law school with trusted study aids, expertly written casebooks, and innovative learning resources from West Academic and Foundation Press®. Advance your career with professional development training courses covering licensure, accreditation, e-discovery, legal practice, and paralegal skills. BARBRI Bar Review AdaptBar® Supplements CriticalPass Flash Cards. Learn More. 99.99 Percent of online uptime for the past three bar seasons means fewer disruptions to your learning 19 Students who follow BARBRI's proven process score higher on the bar than those who don't use BARBRI 185 combined experience of our curriculum team means we know how to teach you to pass the bar. Individual learners, law firms, and employers all around the world choose our SOE Prep for its ultimate flexibility and industry-leading pass rates. Learn More BARBRI's comprehensive SQE1 preparation course provides learners with a proven approach to successfully tackle the multiple-choice question (MCQ) exam format. Study materials to suit every learning style are complemented with one-to-one learning coach support, and personalisation to meet individual needs. BARBRI's SQE2 preparation course offers a hands-on approach to mastering the exam. Our extensive practice activities with personalised feedback and varied exercises develop the crucial writing and oral skills needed for exam success, while our realistic mock exams provide support and insights to ensure a confident performance on exam day. BARBRI's LSAT Preparation Course curriculum – designed and taught by legendary LSAT experts Dave Killoran and Jon Denning – is flexible, affordable, and geared towards the new LSAT format. Learn More PowerScore's best-selling LSAT publications provide everything you need to prepare and practice for the LSAT on your own. Private one-on-one tutoring lets you quickly identify and eliminate your LSAT weaknesses. Available in person or live online. Our expert staff of law school admissions consultants will demystify the process and guide you in crafting a stellar law school application. Discover the tools you need to become a top law student. Learn core 1L material, exam-taking strategies, academic skills and more, all before your first day of law school. We know that for the 1.5+ million attorneys and solicitors we have helped prep for their qualifying exams (and the firms and organizations that have hired them), the learning doesn't end there. Explore our training and certification programs and power your career development. Popular subjects include paralegal certificate training, legal nurse consultant training course, negotiation skills training, and intellectual property certification. Learn More 275,000+ Professionals have continued their legal education with BARBRI 75,000+ Paralegal and legal administrators have gone through our CLS training 7,000+ Professional webinars available live or on demand with downloadable content Improve and certify your e-discovery knowledge and skill, advance your career, and increase overall competency with our Certified E-Discovery Specialist (CEDS) Certification program. Access relevant, leading-edge continuing education webinars powered that empower attorneys, legal professionals, CPAs and accountants to enhance their expertise. Select from flexible learning options across more than 30 practice areas. Invest in your future with our nationally acclaimed Paralegal Certificate Course® and specialize in your preferred area of law with our Advanced Paralegal Certificate Course, which offers specialization in 16 advanced legal topics. Faculty trusts materials from West Academic and Foundation Press®. Ensure student success with our Study Aids Collection Equip your law school with resources to deliver quality education with our partnership programs. Identify and support at-risk students with Lawyering Fundamentals. Prepare students for the bar exam with comprehensive and supplemental bar review. Learn More SQE1 + SQE2 Preparation Courses Foundations in Law Legal Life Skills Courses Learn More BARBRI Bar Review Firm Pass SQE 1 & 2 Preparation Courses Professional Skills and Compliance SkillBursts Professional Development, CLE & CPE, and Legal Life Skills Advanced Paralegal Certificate, and more. Learn More Students who use BARBRI bar prep score an average of 19 points higher than those using other bar prep tools*. Learn why. BARBRI Bar Review's unique Personal Study Plan (PSP) is the only comprehensive, customizable bar prep that learns as you learn and adjusts your schedule automatically. We go beyond rolling everything over from a missed study day like other courses do. Our proprietary engine and algorithm use decades of bar exam data to create a daily personalized study calendar, suggesting lectures, study topics, and bar exam practice tests targeting what is most likely to boost your bar exam score. *Scores are based on studies of actual bar exam scores from students in UBE states. Get Started Automatically adjust your daily study schedule to keep you on track with bar prep + your overall number of study days. Control your own schedule, without needing to contact customer service. Adapts to your learning pace. Select "always off" days and single days off for complete flexibility and learn-life balance. BARBRI's cutting-edge bar prep methodology – rooted in established learning science and written by the most experienced bar review educators in the industry – will give you confidence on exam day. Boost your productivity with concise 20-30-minute lectures to fit every learning style and schedule. Get equipped with a strong foundational understanding of bar exam subjects before delving into the details. Achieve mastery via reinforced knowledge, enhanced information retention and recall techniques. Enhance your learning experience through regular feedback and active interaction. Course texts and study materials created by BARBRI bar exam experts in print or online. BARBRI is here throughout your bar exam preparation journey with experienced attorneys and support professionals. Join our community, connect with peers, and maximize your success. Your coach provides small group bar expert coaching. Expert feedback from bar exam writing experts gives you the individualized guidance you need to capture more essay points. Attorney support is available to answer your questions about the law, the course, or the exam. 24/7 technical support team is ready to assist you with access, questions, guidance, and more. While you are likely never to need us, rest assured our experienced team is here to help. Achieve a higher bar exam score with our trusted, user-friendly, fairly-priced study tools. Study smarter and pass the bar. The Multistate Bar Examination (MBE) is the six-hour, 200-question multiple-choice examination developed by the National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) and administered as part of the bar examination in nearly every jurisdiction. With AdaptBar®, you'll always be given material that most resembles the actual questions you'll encounter on exam day. Get personalized real-time statistics, so you know exactly how you are performing in every area to refine and focus your studies on the subjects and subtopics you need to practice the most. Plus, AdaptBar MCQ Simulator's patented advanced timing analysis will have you confidently prepared to finish the MBE on time. Feel confident on exam day with our collection of easy-to-use bar prep tools. Choose how to study based on your unique needs and preferences, including: Study anywhere, anytime. Guided or self-directed online bar prep. Digital and/or physical flashcards. Optional tutoring packages with tiered pricing. Only pay for what you need. Check circle 1,375+ MBE questions licensed directly from the NCBE. Check circle 2,000+ online flashcards in all seven subjects. Check circle Compare your performance on each question to national and state averages. Learn more about MCQ Simulator. Retaker + check circle Practice with real, released questions from past bar exams. Check circle Exclusive tutor tips offer insights into how to analyze specific bar exam questions. Check circle 2,000+ online flashcards covering core subject areas. Learn more about Writing Guide. Retaker + check circle 20+ hours of concise videos covering all 7 MBE subjects broken down by subtopic for clarity and retention. Check circle Each video includes lecture notes to help you follow along. Check circle Watch on your phone with the AdaptBar mobile app. Check circle New print purchase includes six months of full access to the Critical Pass Flashcards digital experience. Check circle Purchase separate MBE/MP1 sets, or a bundled package. Check circle Physical flashcards with free shipping allow you get away from your screen and study anywhere. Check circle 1:1 tutoring and mentorship. Check circle Personalized training to keep you on a structured study schedule. Check circle In-depth Bluebook Evaluation offers personalized feedback on essays and performance tests. Ultimate flexibility, individualised learning to suit YOUR needs and unrivaled academic, career and wellbeing support. Trust BARBRI, you're in safe hands. You can choose to do the online SQE1 preparation course over 40, 20 or 10 weeks, depending on your background and whether you're able to dedicate 10 or 40 hours a week. Your SQE1 study materials, which you can access anytime and from anywhere via desktop, mobile or the app, are available in short bite-sized sessions of just 15-20 minutes – perfect for fitting into your lunch break or daily commute! No two learners are the same. Our AI-powered Personal Study Plan (PSP) creates a unique study schedule for you, based on your calendar preferences. What's more, our SQE1 course content is delivered in multiple formats meeting the needs of a variety of learning styles. You'll also have access to 3,000 MCQs, 8 mock tests and 1 fully simulated mock exam to give you all the practice you need to sit your exam with confidence. With BARBRI you're never alone! You can book unlimited one-to-one sessions with a learning coach, ask legal questions via the PSP, and join interactive workshops and sessions with tutors and fellow students. You'll have access to wellbeing and mental health support to help you foster a positive, fulfilling lifestyle during your studies, while our employability team is ready to help with careers and QWE advice. * of those who completed at least 90% of the course, January 2025 exam  Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA) pass rate, January 2025 exam Your PSP helps you to stay on track. Simply log in, set your preferred days for studying and block out periods when you're not available. Your PSP will schedule the learning modules around your available time. Missed a day? The PSP will automatically reschedule the remaining modules to help you catch up. Check circle Flexible and adaptable. Check circle Progress dashboard. Check circle Takes all the stress (and time!) out of scheduling. Check circle All online study materials in one place, online or in app. Our comprehensive SQE1 preparation course, designed and taught by qualified solicitors and barristers, is specifically created with complementing learning materials, spaced repetition and extensive practice questions to help you understand and retain your learning and set you up for exam success. Check circle 20- to 30-minute video lectures easily fit into your schedule. Check circle Digital and hardback workbooks offer summaries. Check circle 3,000+ practice multiple choice questions (MCQ) check circle 8 mock tests and a full simulated exam. You can book unlimited sessions with a learning coach, who will mentor you throughout your exam prep to help your progress and get ready for the SQE1 exam. You will also have access to our employability support to help you understand your QWE and career options, as well as wellness support should you need it. Check circle Unlimited sessions with learning coaches. Check circle Ask legal questions through the PSP with a quick turnaround. Check circle Career and employability support. Check circle Mental health and wellness support. Want to try out our Personal Study Plan (PSP)? Just enrol for a free demo account and explore a preview version of our SQE1 Prep course. Enrol for Free The SQE1 exam tests you on the application of your Functioning Legal Knowledge (FLK) through 360 single-best-answer multiple-choice questions. The questions are split over four sessions, two sessions per day over two days. Each session contains 90 questions and lasts around 2.5 hours, with a total of 10 hours of exam time. The exam is computer-based and can be sat worldwide at Pearson VUE test centres. The following subject areas are tested: Day 1, FLK1: Business Law and Practice; Dispute Resolution; Contract; Tort; and (D) degree from an accredited law school is a common prerequisite. Some states require a combination of law school education and an additional legal study or apprenticeship under certain circumstances, but these paths are less common and usually have specific requirements. In California, Virginia, and Washington, you can take your bar exam without going to law school through a structured apprenticeship program known as a bar apprentice. The bar exam is one of the most challenging tests you'll face in your legal and academic career. It requires fortitude and drive, a keen understanding of the broad array of key legal topics, and regular, simulated practice. Despite its difficulty, with thorough preparation and dedication, many candidates successfully pass the bar exam each year. Preparation typically includes taking bar review courses, practicing under timed conditions, and utilizing study aids and resources. It depends. Some states have retaker caps between 3 and 5 within a certain amount of time. Others require extended waiting periods. When in doubt, look at the State Bar Admission websites for the latest information in your jurisdiction. Studying for the bar exam is a marathon, not a sprint. First, be prepared to dedicate a sufficient amount of time for study – at least 10 weeks of focused study. Second, it's important to read studying for the bar exam like a job by having a set of daily assignments to complete as part of a structured schedule of study. Third, it's important that you review all of the bar-tested subjects, master the broad legal principles – not necessarily all of the details– and develop the necessary problem-solving and writing skills. Finally, having a sufficient bank of practice multiple-choice and essay questions is critical to your success. With BARBRI, we provide you with a personalized and highly structured study plan that provides a comprehensive review of all bar tested material in a approachable and engaging way along with all of the practice questions and essays you need for success. With BARBRI you can rest assured that you have everything you need to pass the bar exam on your first try. To become a lawyer in almost every US jurisdiction, you must have the required education and pass the bar exam in that jurisdiction. For most states, you must have earned your Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and have earned your Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school. The bar exam is administered by each state and typically tests your understanding of legal subjects and their overall competency to practice law. The UBE tests: Civil Procedure, constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law and Procedure, Evidence, and Real Property. Tort's Agency, Conflict of Laws, Corporations and LLCs, Family Law, Partnerships, Secured Transactions, Trusts and Future Interests, Decedent's Estates. Note: Bar Exam subjects vary by state. For more information about what subjects are tested, please visit individual state pages in our Resources section. The National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) is launching a new U.S. bar exam – popularly known as the NextGen Bar Exam – in July 2026. Five states (plus Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands) have adopted the NextGen bar exam for 2026, and 19 other jurisdictions have opted in, starting in either 2027 or 2028. Other states continue to evaluate their options, including the adoption of NextGen or alternative exams and pathways. Learn more about NextGen There is no particular visa required to travel to the United States to sit for a U.S. bar exam. Traveling on a normal tourist visa is sufficient. For most jurisdictions, the bar exam is a 2-day exam that is held on the last Tuesday & Wednesday every February and July. There are still a few states that administer a 2 ½ or 3-day bar exam. While the format and content of each state's exam can vary, there is a growing trend toward adopting the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Whether you'll be taking the exam in a state that administers the UBE or a state-specific exam, some universal truths cover almost all state bar exams. Check out this video to learn these "universal truths" and more about the bar exam. Generally, any qualified lawyer in good standing anywhere in the world is eligible to sit the California Bar Exam. So long as the attorney can produce a certificate of good standing and a home jurisdiction practice certificate, the California Bar Exam is available. In addition, an international law student may become eligible for the California Bar by completing a one-year LL.M. at a law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA) or accredited by the state of California. In practice, this means completing an LL.M. in the United States. Equally, an online LL.M. from a U.S. law school is also eligible for the California Bar Exam. Learn more about the bar exam. Accelerated 10-Week Course: The Accelerated is the fastest way to qualify and is only suitable for recent UK law graduates with the ability and opportunity to study intensively and full-time. It requires 40 hours of study per week and SQE exam questions are similar to the US Bar exam ones, but completely different to the MCQs you may have encountered at university. A more apt way of describing them is as single-best-answer questions (SBAQs), where all the answer options are plausible or partially correct, but only one is 100% correct based on the context of the question. You need to learn how SBAQs work, learn to spot the nuances, and understand the principles behind each law – and we at BARBRI are experts in these, having helped 1.45 million US bar students prepare for the bar exams. We turn every SBAQ practice question into a mini-lesson, and don't just give the correct answer, but we also explain why it's the correct answer, and why each of the other options weren't the best answer in the given situation. Have questions about the Bar Exam or the BARBRI Bar Review courses we offer? We're here to answer them. The bar exam is, in most jurisdictions, a two-day examination that is one of the requirements for bar admission. The Unified Bar Exam (UBE) is comprised of three primary components: a multiple choice component (MBE), an essay component (MEE) and a test that requires candidates to perform realistic legal tasks, such as drafting legal documents or analyzing a client's case scenario. Although the majority of jurisdictions are UBE states, there are state-specific exams administered by each jurisdiction. There is not one exam that every state takes. Rather, each jurisdiction (JD) has the ability to opt in to the UBE or to create its own comparable test: UBE: States: Most U.S. States Territories: Virgin Islands JDK-Specific: States: California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, South Dakota, Virginia, and Wisconsin Territories: Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, Puerto Rico The MBE is short for Multistate Bar Exam, a 200-question multiple choice exam that is administered in all US Bar jurisdictions except Louisiana. Generally, yes. In the United States, typically, you do need to graduate from law school in order to take the bar exam. Each state has its own requirements for eligibility to sit for the bar exam, but completing a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school is a common prerequisite. Some states require a combination of law school education and an additional legal study or apprenticeship under certain circumstances, but these paths are less common and usually have specific requirements. In California, Virginia, and Washington, you can take your bar exam without going to law school through a structured apprenticeship program known as a bar apprentice. The bar exam is one of the most challenging tests you'll face in your legal and academic career. It requires fortitude and drive, a keen understanding of the broad array of key legal topics, and regular, simulated practice. Despite its difficulty, with thorough preparation and dedication, many candidates successfully pass the bar exam each year. Preparation typically includes taking bar review courses, practicing under timed conditions, and utilizing study aids and resources. It depends. Some states have retaker caps between 3 and 5 within a certain amount of time. Others require extended waiting periods. When in doubt, look at the State Bar Admission websites for the latest information in your jurisdiction. Studying for the bar exam is a marathon, not a sprint. First, be prepared to dedicate a sufficient amount of time for study – at least 10 weeks of focused study. Second, it's important to read studying for the bar exam like a job by having a set of daily assignments to complete as part of a structured schedule of study. Third, it's important that you review all of the bar-tested subjects, master the broad legal principles – not necessarily all of the details– and develop the necessary problem-solving and writing skills. Finally, having a sufficient bank of practice multiple-choice and essay questions is critical to your success. With BARBRI, we provide you with a personalized and highly structured study plan that provides a comprehensive review of all bar tested material in a approachable and engaging way along with all of the practice questions and essays you need for success. With BARBRI you can rest assured that you have everything you need to pass the bar exam on your first try. To become a lawyer in almost every US jurisdiction, you must have the required education and pass the bar exam in that jurisdiction. For most states, you must have earned your Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and have earned your Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school. The bar exam is administered by each state and typically tests your understanding of legal subjects and their overall competency to practice law. The UBE tests: Civil Procedure, constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law and Procedure, Evidence, and Real Property. Tort's Agency, Conflict of Laws, Corporations and LLCs, Family Law, Partnerships, Secured Transactions, Trusts and Future Interests, Decedent's Estates. Note: Bar Exam subjects vary by state. For more information about what subjects are tested, please visit individual state pages in our Resources section. The National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) is launching a new U.S. bar exam – popularly known as the NextGen Bar Exam – in July 2026. Five states (plus Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands) have adopted the NextGen bar exam for 2026, and 19 other jurisdictions have opted in, starting in either 2027 or 2028. Other states continue to evaluate their options, including the adoption of NextGen or alternative exams and pathways. Learn more about NextGen There is no particular visa required to travel to the United States to sit for a U.S. bar exam. Traveling on a normal tourist visa is sufficient. For most jurisdictions, the bar exam is a 2-day exam that is held on the last Tuesday & Wednesday every February and July. There are still a few states that administer a 2 ½ or 3-day bar exam. While the format and content of each state's exam can vary, there is a growing trend toward adopting the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Whether you'll be taking the exam in a state that administers the UBE or a state-specific exam, some universal truths cover almost all state bar exams. Check out this video to learn these "universal truths" and more about the bar exam. Generally, any qualified lawyer in good standing anywhere in the world is eligible to sit the California Bar Exam. So long as the attorney can produce a certificate of good standing and a home jurisdiction practice certificate, the California Bar Exam is available. In addition, an international law student may become eligible for the California Bar by completing a one-year LL.M. at a law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA) or accredited by the state of California. In practice, this means completing an LL.M. in the United States. Equally, an online LL.M. from a U.S. law school is also eligible for the California Bar Exam. Learn more about the bar exam. Accelerated 10-Week Course: The Accelerated is the fastest way to qualify and is only suitable for recent UK law graduates with the ability and opportunity to study intensively and full-time. It requires 40 hours of study per week and SQE exam questions are similar to the US Bar exam ones, but completely different to the MCQs you may have encountered at university. A more apt way of describing them is as single-best-answer questions (SBAQs), where all the answer options are plausible or partially correct, but only one is 100% correct based on the context of the question. You need to learn how SBAQs work, learn to spot the nuances, and understand the principles behind each law – and we at BARBRI are experts in these, having helped 1.45 million US bar students prepare for the bar exams. We turn every SBAQ practice question into a mini-lesson, and don't just give the correct answer, but we also explain why it's the correct answer, and why each of the other options weren't the best answer in the given situation. Have questions about the Bar Exam or the BARBRI Bar Review courses we offer? We're here to answer them. The bar exam is, in most jurisdictions, a two-day examination that is one of the requirements for bar admission. The Unified Bar Exam (UBE) is comprised of three primary components: a multiple choice component (MBE), an essay component (MEE) and a test that requires candidates to perform realistic legal tasks, such as drafting legal documents or analyzing a client's case scenario. Although the majority of jurisdictions are UBE states, there are state-specific exams administered by each jurisdiction. There is not one exam that every state takes. Rather, each jurisdiction (JD) has the ability to opt in to the UBE or to create its own comparable test: UBE: States: Most U.S. States Territories: Virgin Islands JDK-Specific: States: California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, South Dakota, Virginia, and Wisconsin Territories: Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, Puerto Rico The MBE is short for Multistate Bar Exam, a 200-question multiple choice exam that is administered in all US Bar jurisdictions except Louisiana. Generally, yes. In the United States, typically, you do need to graduate from law school in order to take the bar exam. Each state has its own requirements for eligibility to sit for the bar exam, but completing a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school is a common prerequisite. Some states require a combination of law school education and an additional legal study or apprenticeship under certain circumstances, but these paths are less common and usually have specific requirements. In California, Virginia, and Washington, you can take your bar exam without going to law school through a structured apprenticeship program known as a bar apprentice. The bar exam is one of the most challenging tests you'll face in your legal and academic career. It requires fortitude and drive, a keen understanding of the broad array of key legal topics, and regular, simulated practice. Despite its difficulty, with thorough preparation and dedication, many candidates successfully pass the bar exam each year. Preparation typically includes taking bar review courses, practicing under timed conditions, and utilizing study aids and resources. It depends. Some states have retaker caps between 3 and 5 within a certain amount of time. Others require extended waiting periods. When in doubt, look at the State Bar Admission websites for the latest information in your jurisdiction. Studying for the bar exam is a marathon, not a sprint. First, be prepared to dedicate a sufficient amount of time for study – at least 10 weeks of focused study. Second, it's important to read studying for the bar exam like a job by having a set of daily assignments to complete as part of a structured schedule of study. Third, it's important that you review all of the bar-tested subjects, master the broad legal principles – not necessarily all of the details– and develop the necessary problem-solving and writing skills. Finally, having a sufficient bank of practice multiple-choice and essay questions is critical to your success. With BARBRI, we provide you with a personalized and highly structured study plan that provides a comprehensive review of all bar tested material in a approachable and engaging way along with all of the practice questions and essays you need for success. With BARBRI you can rest assured that you have everything you need to pass the bar exam on your first try. To become a lawyer in almost every US jurisdiction, you must have the required education and pass the bar exam in that jurisdiction. For most states, you must have earned your Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and have earned your Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school. The bar exam is administered by each state and typically tests your understanding of legal subjects and their overall competency to practice law. The UBE tests: Civil Procedure, constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law and Procedure, Evidence, and Real Property. Tort's Agency, Conflict of Laws, Corporations and LLCs, Family Law, Partnerships, Secured Transactions, Trusts and Future Interests, Decedent's Estates. Note: Bar Exam subjects vary by state. For more information about what subjects are tested, please visit individual state pages in our Resources section. The National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) is launching a new U.S. bar exam – popularly known as the NextGen Bar Exam – in July 2026. Five states (plus Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands) have adopted the NextGen bar exam for 2026, and 19 other jurisdictions have opted in, starting in either 2027 or 2028. Other states continue to evaluate their options, including the adoption of NextGen or alternative exams and pathways. Learn more about NextGen There is no particular visa required to travel to the United States to sit for a U.S. bar exam. Traveling on a normal tourist visa is sufficient. For most jurisdictions, the bar exam is a 2-day exam that is held on the last Tuesday & Wednesday every February and July. There are still a few states that administer a 2 ½ or 3-day bar exam. While the format and content of each state's exam can vary, there is a growing trend toward adopting the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Whether you'll be taking the exam in a state that administers the UBE or a state-specific exam, some universal truths cover almost all state bar exams. Check out this video to learn these "universal truths" and more about the bar exam. Generally, any qualified lawyer in good standing anywhere in the world is eligible to sit the California Bar Exam. So long as the attorney can produce a certificate of good standing and a home jurisdiction practice certificate, the California Bar Exam is available. In addition, an international law student may become eligible for the California Bar by completing a one-year LL.M. at a law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA) or accredited by the state of California. In practice, this means completing an LL.M. in the United States. Equally, an online LL.M. from a U.S. law school is also eligible for the California Bar Exam. Learn more about the bar exam. Accelerated 10-Week Course: The Accelerated is the fastest way to qualify and is only suitable for recent UK law graduates with the ability and opportunity to study intensively and full-time. It requires 40 hours of study per week and SQE exam questions are similar to the US Bar exam ones, but completely different to the MCQs you may have encountered at university. A more apt way of describing them is as single-best-answer questions (SBAQs), where all the answer options are plausible or partially correct, but only one is 100% correct based on the context of the question. You need to learn how SBAQs work, learn to spot the nuances, and understand the principles behind each law – and we at BARBRI are experts in these, having helped 1.45 million US bar students prepare for the bar exams. We turn every SBAQ practice question into a mini-lesson, and don't just give the correct answer, but we also explain why it's the correct answer, and why each of the other options weren't the best answer in the given situation. Have questions about the Bar Exam or the BARBRI Bar Review courses we offer? We're here to answer them. The bar exam is, in most jurisdictions, a two-day examination that is one of the requirements for bar admission. The Unified Bar Exam (UBE) is comprised of three primary components: a multiple choice component (MBE), an essay component (MEE) and a test that requires candidates to perform realistic legal tasks, such as drafting legal documents or analyzing a client's case scenario. Although the majority of jurisdictions are UBE states, there are state-specific exams administered by each jurisdiction. There is not one exam that every state takes. Rather, each jurisdiction (JD) has the ability to opt in to the UBE or to create its own comparable test: UBE: States: Most U.S. States Territories: Virgin Islands JDK-Specific: States: California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, South Dakota, Virginia, and Wisconsin Territories: Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, Puerto Rico The MBE is short for Multistate Bar Exam, a 200-question multiple choice exam that is administered in all US Bar jurisdictions except Louisiana. Generally, yes. In the United States, typically, you do need to graduate from law school in order to take the bar exam. Each state has its own requirements for eligibility to sit for the bar exam, but completing a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school is a common prerequisite. Some states require a combination of law school education and an additional legal study or apprenticeship under certain circumstances, but these paths are less common and usually have specific requirements. In California, Virginia, and Washington, you can take your bar exam without going to law school through a structured apprenticeship program known as a bar apprentice. The bar exam is one of the most challenging tests you'll face in your legal and academic career. It requires fortitude and drive, a keen understanding of the broad array of key legal topics, and regular, simulated practice. Despite its difficulty, with thorough preparation and dedication, many candidates successfully pass the bar exam each year. Preparation typically includes taking bar review courses, practicing under timed conditions, and utilizing study aids and resources. It depends. Some states have retaker caps between 3 and 5 within a certain amount of time. Others require extended waiting periods. When in doubt, look at the State Bar Admission websites for the latest information in your jurisdiction. Studying for the bar exam is a marathon, not a sprint. First, be prepared to dedicate a sufficient amount of time for study – at least 10 weeks of focused study. Second, it's important to read studying for the bar exam like a job by having a set of daily assignments to complete as part of a structured schedule of study. Third, it's important that you review all of the bar-tested subjects, master the broad legal principles – not necessarily all of the details– and develop the necessary problem-solving and writing skills. Finally, having a sufficient bank of practice multiple-choice and essay questions is critical to your success. With BARBRI, we provide you with a personalized and highly structured study plan that provides a comprehensive review of all bar tested material in a approachable and engaging way along with all of the practice questions and essays you need for success. With BARBRI you can rest assured that you have everything you need to pass the bar exam on your first try. To become a lawyer in almost every US jurisdiction, you must have the required education and pass the bar exam in that jurisdiction. For most states, you must have earned your Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and have earned your Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school. The bar exam is administered by each state and typically tests your understanding of legal subjects and their overall competency to practice law. The UBE tests: Civil Procedure, constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law and Procedure, Evidence, and Real Property. Tort's Agency, Conflict of Laws, Corporations and LLCs, Family Law, Partnerships, Secured Transactions, Trusts and Future Interests, Decedent's Estates. Note: Bar Exam subjects vary by state. For more information about what subjects are tested, please visit individual state pages in our Resources section. The National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) is launching a new U.S. bar exam – popularly known as the NextGen Bar Exam – in July 2026. Five states (plus Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands) have adopted the NextGen bar exam for 2026, and 19 other jurisdictions have opted in, starting in either 2027 or 2028. Other states continue to evaluate their options, including the adoption of NextGen or alternative exams and pathways. Learn more about NextGen There is no particular visa required to travel to the United States to sit for a U.S. bar exam. Traveling on a normal tourist visa is sufficient. For most jurisdictions, the bar exam is a 2-day exam that is held on the last Tuesday & Wednesday every February and July. There are still a few states that administer a 2 ½ or 3-day bar exam. While the format and content of each state's exam can vary, there is a growing trend toward adopting the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Whether you'll be taking the exam in a state that administers the UBE or a state-specific exam, some universal truths cover almost all state bar exams. Check out this video to learn these "universal truths" and more about the bar exam. Generally, any qualified lawyer in good standing anywhere in the world is eligible to sit the California Bar Exam. So long as the attorney can produce a certificate of good standing and a home jurisdiction practice certificate, the California Bar Exam is available. In addition, an international law student may become eligible for the California Bar by completing a one-year LL.M. at a law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA) or accredited by the state of California. In practice, this means completing an LL.M. in the United States. Equally, an online LL.M. from a U.S. law school is also eligible for the California Bar Exam. Learn more about the bar exam. Accelerated 10-Week Course: The Accelerated is the fastest way to qualify and is only suitable for recent UK law graduates with the ability and opportunity to study intensively and full-time. It requires 40 hours of study per week and SQE exam questions are similar to the US Bar exam ones, but completely different to the MCQs you may have encountered at university. A more apt way of describing them is as single-best-answer questions (SBAQs), where all the answer options are plausible or partially correct, but only one is 100% correct based on the context of the question. You need to learn how SBAQs work, learn to spot the nuances, and understand the principles behind each law – and we at BARBRI are experts in these, having helped 1.45 million US bar students prepare for the bar exams. We turn every SBAQ practice question into a mini-lesson, and don't just give the correct answer, but we also explain why it's the correct answer, and why each of the other options weren't the best answer in the given situation. Have questions about the Bar Exam or the BARBRI Bar Review courses we offer? We're here to answer them. The bar exam is, in most jurisdictions, a two-day examination that is one of the requirements for bar admission. The Unified Bar Exam (UBE) is comprised of three primary components: a multiple choice component (MBE), an essay component (MEE) and a test that requires candidates to perform realistic legal tasks, such as drafting legal documents or analyzing a client's case scenario. Although the majority of jurisdictions are UBE states, there are state-specific exams administered by each jurisdiction. There is not one exam that every state takes. Rather, each jurisdiction (JD) has the ability to opt in to the UBE or to create its own comparable test: UBE: States: Most U.S. States Territories: Virgin Islands JDK-Specific: States: California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, South Dakota, Virginia, and Wisconsin Territories: Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, Puerto Rico The MBE is short for Multistate Bar Exam, a 200-question multiple choice exam that is administered in all US Bar jurisdictions except Louisiana. Generally, yes. In the United States, typically, you do need to graduate from law school in order to take the bar exam. Each state has its own requirements for eligibility to sit for the bar exam, but completing a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school is a common prerequisite. Some states require a combination of law school education and an additional legal study or apprenticeship under certain circumstances, but these paths are less common and usually have specific requirements. In California, Virginia, and Washington, you can take your bar exam without going to law school through a structured apprenticeship program known as a bar apprentice. The bar exam is one of the most challenging tests you'll face in your legal and academic career. It requires fortitude and drive, a keen understanding of the broad array of key legal topics, and regular, simulated practice. Despite its difficulty, with thorough preparation and dedication, many candidates successfully pass the bar exam each year. Preparation typically includes taking bar review courses, practicing under timed conditions, and utilizing study aids and resources. It depends. Some states have retaker caps between 3 and 5 within a certain amount of time. Others require extended waiting periods. When in doubt, look at the State Bar Admission websites for the latest information in your jurisdiction. Studying for the bar exam is a marathon, not a sprint. First, be prepared to dedicate a sufficient amount of time for study – at least 10 weeks of focused study. Second, it's important to read studying for the bar exam like a job by having a set of daily assignments to complete as part of a structured schedule of study. Third, it's important that you review all of the bar-tested subjects, master the broad legal principles – not necessarily all of the details– and develop the necessary problem-solving and writing skills. Finally, having a sufficient bank of practice multiple-choice and essay questions is critical to your success. With BARBRI, we provide you with a personalized and highly structured study plan that provides a comprehensive review of all bar tested material in a approachable and engaging way along with all of the practice questions and essays you need for success. With BARBRI you can rest assured that you have everything you need to pass the bar exam on your first try. To become a lawyer in almost every US jurisdiction, you must have the required education and pass the bar exam in that jurisdiction. For most states, you must have earned your Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and have earned your Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school. The bar exam is administered by each state and typically tests your understanding of legal subjects and their overall competency to practice law. The UBE tests: Civil Procedure, constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law and Procedure, Evidence, and Real Property. Tort's Agency, Conflict of Laws, Corporations and LLCs, Family Law, Partnerships, Secured Transactions, Trusts and Future Interests, Decedent's Estates. Note: Bar Exam subjects vary by state. For more information about what subjects are tested, please visit individual state pages in our Resources section. The National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) is launching a new U.S. bar exam – popularly known as the NextGen Bar Exam – in July 2026. Five states (plus Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands) have adopted the NextGen bar exam for 2026, and 19 other jurisdictions have opted in, starting in either 2027 or 2028. Other states continue to evaluate their options, including the adoption of NextGen or alternative exams and pathways. Learn more about NextGen There is no particular visa required to travel to the United States to sit for a U.S. bar exam. Traveling on a normal tourist visa is sufficient. For most jurisdictions, the bar exam is a 2-day exam that is held on the last Tuesday & Wednesday every February and July. There are still a few states that administer a 2 ½ or 3-day bar exam. While the format and content of each state's exam can vary, there is a growing trend toward adopting the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Whether you'll be taking the exam in a state that administers the UBE or a state-specific exam, some universal truths cover almost all state bar exams. Check out this video to learn these "universal truths" and more about the bar exam. Generally, any qualified lawyer in good standing anywhere in the world is eligible to sit the California Bar Exam. So long as the attorney can produce a certificate of good standing and a home jurisdiction practice certificate, the California Bar Exam is available. In addition, an international law student may become eligible for the California Bar by completing a one-year LL.M. at a law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA) or accredited by the state of California. In practice, this means completing an LL.M. in the United States. Equally, an online LL.M. from a U.S. law school is also eligible for the California Bar Exam. Learn more about the bar exam. Accelerated 10-Week Course: The Accelerated is the fastest way to qualify and is only suitable for recent UK law graduates with the ability and opportunity to study intensively and full-time. It requires 40 hours of study per week and SQE exam questions are similar to the US Bar exam ones, but completely different to the MCQs you may have encountered at university. A more apt way of describing them is as single-best-answer questions (SBAQs), where all the answer options are plausible or partially correct, but only one is 100% correct based on the context of the question. You need to learn how SBAQs work, learn to spot the nuances, and understand the principles behind each law – and we at BARBRI are experts in these, having helped 1.45 million US bar students prepare for the bar exams. We turn every SBAQ practice question into a mini-lesson, and don't just give the correct answer, but we also explain why it's the correct answer, and why each of the other options weren't the best answer in the given situation. Have questions about the Bar Exam or the BARBRI Bar Review courses we offer? We're here to answer them. The bar exam is, in most jurisdictions, a two-day examination that is one of the requirements for bar admission. The Unified Bar Exam (UBE) is comprised of three primary components: a multiple choice component (MBE), an essay component (MEE) and a test that requires candidates to perform realistic legal tasks, such as drafting legal documents or analyzing a client's case scenario. Although the majority of jurisdictions are UBE states, there are state-specific exams administered by each jurisdiction. There is not one exam that every state takes. Rather, each jurisdiction (JD) has the ability to opt in to the UBE or to create its own comparable test: UBE: States: Most U.S. States Territories: Virgin Islands JDK-Specific: States: California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, South Dakota, Virginia, and Wisconsin Territories: Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, Puerto Rico The MBE is short for Multistate Bar Exam, a 200-question multiple choice exam that is administered in all US Bar jurisdictions except Louisiana. Generally, yes. In the United States, typically, you do need to graduate from law school in order to take the bar exam. Each state has its own requirements for eligibility to sit for the bar exam, but completing a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school is a common prerequisite. Some states require a combination of law school education and an additional legal study or apprenticeship under certain circumstances, but these paths are less common and usually have specific requirements. In California, Virginia, and Washington, you can take your bar exam without going to law school through a structured apprenticeship program known as a bar apprentice. The bar exam is one of the most challenging tests you'll face in your legal and academic career. It requires fortitude and drive, a keen understanding of the broad array of key legal topics, and regular, simulated practice. Despite its difficulty, with thorough preparation and dedication, many candidates successfully pass the bar exam each year. Preparation typically includes taking bar review courses, practicing under timed conditions, and utilizing study aids and resources. It depends. Some states have retaker caps between 3 and 5 within a certain amount of time. Others require extended waiting periods. When in doubt, look at the State Bar Admission websites for the latest information in your jurisdiction. Studying for the bar exam is a marathon, not a sprint. First, be prepared to dedicate a sufficient amount of time for study – at least 10 weeks of focused study. Second, it's important to read studying for the bar exam like a job by having a set of daily assignments to complete as part of a structured schedule of study. Third, it's important that you review all of the bar-tested subjects, master the broad legal principles – not necessarily all of the details– and develop the necessary problem-solving and writing skills. Finally, having a sufficient bank of practice multiple-choice and essay questions is critical to your success. With BARBRI, we provide you with a personalized and highly structured study plan that provides a comprehensive review of all bar tested material in a approachable and engaging way along with all of the practice questions and essays you need for success. With BARBRI you can rest assured that you have everything you need to pass the bar exam on your first try. To become a lawyer in almost every US jurisdiction, you must have the required education and pass the bar exam in that jurisdiction. For most states, you must have earned your Bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and have earned your Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from an accredited law school. The bar exam is administered by each state and typically tests your understanding of legal subjects and their overall competency to practice law. The UBE tests: Civil Procedure, constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law and Procedure, Evidence, and Real Property. Tort's Agency, Conflict of Laws, Corporations and LLCs, Family Law, Partnerships, Secured Transactions, Trusts and Future Interests, Decedent's Estates. Note: Bar Exam subjects vary by state. For more information about what subjects are tested, please visit individual state pages in our Resources section. The National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) is launching a new U.S. bar exam – popularly known as the NextGen Bar Exam – in July 2026. Five states (plus Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands) have adopted the NextGen bar exam for 2026, and 19 other jurisdictions have opted in, starting in either 2027 or 2028. Other states continue to evaluate their options, including the adoption of NextGen or alternative exams and pathways. Learn more about NextGen There is no particular visa required to travel to the United States to sit for a U.S. bar exam. Traveling on a normal tourist visa is sufficient. For most jurisdictions, the bar exam is a 2-day exam that is held on the last Tuesday & Wednesday every February and July. There are still a few states that administer a 2 ½ or 3-day bar exam. While the format and content of each state's exam can vary, there is a growing trend toward adopting the Uniform Bar Exam (UBE). Whether you'll be taking the exam in a state that administers the UBE or a state-specific exam, some universal truths cover almost all state bar exams. Check out this video to learn these "universal truths" and more about the bar exam. Generally, any qualified lawyer in good standing anywhere in the world is eligible to sit the California Bar Exam. So long as the attorney can produce a certificate of good standing and a home jurisdiction practice certificate, the California Bar Exam is available. In addition, an international law student may become eligible for the California Bar by completing a one-year LL.M. at a law school approved by the American Bar Association (ABA) or accredited by the state of California. In practice, this means completing an LL.M. in the United States. Equally, an online LL.M. from a U.S. law school is also eligible for the California Bar Exam. Learn more about the bar exam. Accelerated 10-Week Course: The Accelerated is the fastest way to qualify and is only suitable for recent UK law graduates with the ability and opportunity to study intensively and full-time. It requires 40 hours of study per week and SQE exam questions are similar to the US Bar exam ones, but completely different to the MCQs you may have encountered at university. A more apt way of describing them is as single-best-answer questions (SBAQs), where all the answer options are plausible or partially correct, but only one is 100% correct based on the context of the question. You need to learn how SBAQs work, learn to spot the nuances, and understand the