Ask them to coach you with your skills. However, this can be an expensive route to take and can cost upwards of $300-500 per hour.Or if you go to the likes of Mr. X on the master mentalism course, this would cost around $1,500 for the very same information.There are many skills you need to master to become a mentalist. For each of these skills you'll be able to study the subject matter around the skill. But then as with all studying, where there's theory, there's always practical too.With mentalism, and magic for that matter, many times the effect or trick is actually quite simple once the method is revealed. However, the skills and techniques required to perform the effect or trick may take many hours of practice.The types of skills you should learn and study include the following:One of the most impressive skills to learn and master in mentalism is mind reading. Actually, mentalists cannot mind read, they only simulate it.Mind reading and supernatural abilities needed to look like a psychic include learning about cold reading and the Barnum effect.For both of these skills you can learn them through reading books or on the Master Mentalism course explained in more detail below.Learning to read body language is a great life skill to have. But it's also an essential skill to study and learn for mentalists too. Spotting nonverbal language is a real skill to learn. Derren Brown talks about this in his book Tricks of the Mind, one of the reading musts for becoming a mentalist.When you consider we speak to one another more in body language than we do using the spoken word, you'll realise how important it is to learn. Ex-FBI agent Joe Navarro's book 'What Every BODY is Saying,' is also a must read.In addition to tricks around cold reading and learning the art of understanding nonverbal language, there's NLP suggestion techniques too. Derren Brown is a master at this clever NLP technique, as demonstrated in the video below.The embedded suggestion technique is extremely powerful. Not only can it be used in mentalism, but it can also be used to influence people in every day life too.The trick with this technique is in disguising the 'suggestions' that are hidden within what you say. You need to be able to master this technique and practice'hiding' the suggestions you wish to embed.What's amazing about this effect is your subject will be convinced the idea you 'planted' was their idea. This is demonstrated in the above video with Simon Pegg.More Reading: Master Mentalism Course review (Includes the features and the Pros & Cons)If you are also interested in performing stage hypnotism like Derren Brown, which I consider a mentalism skill, you may be interested to watch the video below for some ideas.Mentalism isn't only about 'mind control' or reading body language and using cold reading. There are many mentalism magic tricks you can learn too. I suggest studying these first and begin to perform these to build your confidence. There are many card tricks you can do that cross over from magic to mentalism magic. There are also tricks that don't involve playing cards too.An example of a mental magic trick that doesn't involve playing cards can be done using a Nomad Pad. This is a pad that was invented by Mathieu Bich. He's one of the magicians to fool Penn and Teller on a UK show on ITV. You could be the next Derren Brown or Oz Pearlman performing on Britain's Got Talent or on America's Got Talent.Did you spot how they switched their T-shirts whilst they did the trick? Due to the camera shots and how you can't see these mentalists the whole time you don't actually see them completely do it (You see a bit of Darren, but not Andrew). However, their shirts are switched at around 1:43 into the video.Watch how Darren is adjusting his T-shirt as he follows Simon Cowell up to the stage. The audience don't see it, as he has his back to them. Most of the TV viewers don't see it as they are focused on Simon.The camouflage part is not a full t-shirt, but just a front covered by their jackets. It's likely that at the point Darren is bringing Simon Cowell on to the stage, Andrew will turn away and remove his camouflage section too. Very clever.Also, just to give you a hint as to how DNA did this trick...it's in how Darren speaks to Andrew. He is using a similar technique to subliminal suggestion. Hidden within his words are the number and the name of the contact. It's easy to miss and is very cleverly done. They have obviously practiced this technique over and again. There are only 10 numbers (including zero), and Darren only has to communicate three of the numbers of her phone number. Which of course he sees. I will leave it to you to see if you can spot exactly how it's done.Your next stop could then be Las Vegas!More Reading: Mentalism and Mind Reading course review (Includes features & Pros & Cons)If you would like to learn how to do amazing mentalist tricks that will make your friend's jaw drop, look at the Master Mentalism course.Master Mentalism is an in-depth course that will show you the secrets behind most of the popular mentalist magic tricks there are.In just a short time after learning from Master Mentalism you will know exactly how mentalists do what they do!For a ridiculously small investment on your part you will be learning some fantastic mentalism and magic skills.
