Kepekten Kurtulmak için En Basit Çözüm

Evde kepekten kurtulmak için en basit çözüm elma sirkesi ile saç durulamaktır. Bunun için temizlenmiş saçlarınızı son durulama suyundan önce yarım çay bardağı elma sirkesi ve 15-20 damla çay ağacı yağı ile birleştiririz saç dipelerinizi 5-10 dakika masaj yapın. Masajdan sonra saçlarınızı iyice durulayın. Bu arada soğuk su kullanmayı unutmayın. Saça sıcak su uygulamak saçların kepeklenmesine neden olur. Kepekten tamamen kurtulmak için bu uygulamayı haftada 2 veya 3 kez tekrarlayın.

Automate from anywhere, anytime. Our iOS and Android apps make it simple. The power of connection Not every thing on the internet plays nice, we're here to fix that. Over 700 apps, services, and devices (and millions of their users) rely on IFTTT for their most important integrations. Your brand here Learn more Your brand here Learn more Smart home is just the start. Create powerful events on your Android device, like updating your phone with images from NASA. Improve your SEO strategy and automatically share your content across platforms. Just say the word and we'll help you stay in-sync across systems as you go through your day. What if the line between your imagination and the real world didn't exist? With augmented reality, not only is that possible, it's here. AR transforms how you work, learn, play, shop, and connect with the world around you. It's the perfect way to visualize things that would be impossible or impractical to see otherwise. Apple has the world's largest AR platform, with hundreds of millions of AR-enabled devices, as well as thousands of AR apps on the App Store. And because Apple hardware and software are designed from the ground up for AR, there is no better way to experience AR. Watch the film By Natasha BakerTORONTO (Reuters) - New smartphone apps aim to solve the problem of keyboards causing aching fingers or auto-correct resulting in embarrassing blunders. The apps replace Qwerty keyboards with alternatives designed to provide better auto-correct and more seamless typing. Minuum, which launched for the iPhone and is available for Android devices, converts the keyboard into a single staggered line of characters and learns users' typing habits to predict what they will type next. "Your fingers are very large relative to the size of your screen, so the first thing we do is assume that everything you type is sloppy and that you're making mistakes all the time," said Will Walmsley, co-founder and chief executive officer of Toronto-based Whirlscape, which created the app. The app's algorithms sense the general area that users are typing to predict the word they intend to type, and then provides a list of 10 options. Walmsley said compressing the keyboard also gives users more screen space and a familiar way of typing without needing to move their fingers up and down. The app, which costs $1.99 on iPhone and $3.99 on Android, is available worldwide in English. Android users can also get the app in Spanish, French, German, Dutch, Italian and Russian. Swype, which launched on the iPhone and is available for Android, Symbian and Windows phones, lets people glide their fingers over a character instead of tapping. As users glide their fingers across the touchscreen keyboard, algorithms predict the word they intend to type based on the keys their fingers cross. Aaron Sheedy, vice president of mobile, text and speech at Burlington, Massachusetts-based Nuance, which created the app, says it is a more natural function than traditional typing. "The organic nature of touchscreens is to swipe and glide. But as soon we open the keyboard, we have to grab both our hands and put our thumbs in an unnatural position to start typing away," he said. The app's predictive algorithms learn a user's language habits over time, including proper nouns that often cause trouble for auto-correction algorithms. "Our goal is to get the keyboard to understand your words and how you write," Sheedy said of Swype, which costs 99 cents on the iPhone. Other popular keyboard apps include SwiftKey and TouchPal, free for iOS and Android, and GIF Keyboard for the iPhone. Although Android users have been able to replace their keyboards with alternatives, Apple has only recently allowed its users to do so.
